

Documenting Patterns of Violence and Exclusion: Recent Incidents of Attacks on Dalits in India

This document compiles verified reports, articles, and institutional findings that chronicle the growing spectrum of caste-based violence and humiliation faced by Dalits across India. The collected links trace incidents of 2025, spanning rural assaults, urban mob attacks, campus suicides, custodial deaths, cultural exclusion, and digital hate campaigns. Together, these instances illustrate how caste hierarchy continues to operate as an instrument of social control, adapting to new political and technological contexts.

The compilation aims to provide a factual and accessible reference base for research, advocacy, and legal analysis. It brings together evidence of how exclusion functions simultaneously at multiple levels — from the everyday violence of the village and workplace to institutional and symbolic attacks in universities, digital spaces, and public office. Read collectively, the links outline a disturbing continuity: that caste-based discrimination remains deeply entrenched, reproducing itself through new forms of social legitimacy and state inaction.

1. A 12-year-old Dalit boy allegedly locked in a cowshed and humiliated after accidentally entering an upper-caste woman's house. He allegedly took poison and died a day later. A case was registered under SC/ST Prevention of Atrocities Act, wrongful confinement, assault and abetment to suicide.
